MEMBERS of the Morfa Nefyn Urdd branch successfully tackled a beach clean up on Sunday as part of their efforts to raise funds to cover costs of travelling to compete at the Tawe Nedd ac Afan Urdd National Eisteddfod.

They were backed by the Keep Wales Tidy group and Gwynedd Council, who provided bin bags and gloves for the workers.

Travelling along the beach from Morfa Nefyn towards Porthdinllaen, the team of about 30 collected more than 20 bags of litter.

Coast Protection Officer for Keep Wales Tidy, Griff Jones, thanked and congratulated them for the excellent effort.

"They worked hard," he said.

"And their effort fell in line with our Coast Care scheme. We would encourage others to follow suit, and to remember that we also have a scheme involving river bank clearing work.

"Support is always available, and we would discuss projects with groups and individuals."

Details on the Keep Wales Tidy schemes can be obtained on 01286 674906.

Painting in numbers!

BY HANNAH JONES

A GROUP of children from the Burton area met up at the water's edge next to the Jolly Sailor to paint the picnic area.

We dragged our parents out to get some fresh air and exercise. Even the local councillor and school governor David Wildman, came along to help, along with some older people.

Lots of work around the village has been done and there's lots more that we want to do, like brightening up the bus stop.

These spring projects are for Whitbread Action Earth, improving the environment and getting people out and doing things to help.

We got lots of work done by working together, and we had fun at the same time.

The girls worked harder than the boys, and we all had free chips because we were hungry!

I helped to wash the brushes and put all the things away after we had finished.

● The author of this report, Hannah Jones, is a Presspaker, aged eight.
